LibGuide Reflection

Section A: Backward-Looking:

In what ways have you gotten better at this kind of work? In what ways do you think you need to improve? I've gotten better at getting comfortable with the ins and outs of LibGuides. This is uncharted territory for me so it was nice to find all of the ways to change the outlines and make it look appealing to others. I enjoyed the creating part of it, however I can improve on learning more technical aspects of the guide.

Section B: Inward-Looking:

Find another piece of work that you did at the beginning of the year to compare and contrast with this. What changes can you see? How did those changes come about? What does that tell you about yourself and how you learn? I've learned so much about reference in general. At the beginning of the semester, I was unfamiliar with reference questions and how to find the answers. I feel I'm well-versed in reference now and this assignment helped me grow with knowledge as I search for specific references for gardening. I learn well by repetition too so the more time went on, I learned more by doing similar assignments and projects over a longer period of time.

Section C: Outward-Looking:

If someone else were looking at the piece, what might they learn about who you are? They might learn that I'm really passionate about gardening and that I acknowledge great resources to learn from. I feel like you can tell this is a topic that I really enjoy because the guide is thorough and touches on all aspects of gardening.

Section D: Forward-Looking:

As you look at this piece, what's one thing that you would like to try to improve upon? I would try to improve on the technical side of the project. There are little things I'm still not familiar with as far as creating the guide so I would just want to improve my knowledge of how to input different media into the guide.
